A long time ago there was a hare who wouldn't stop teasing a tortoise for his _____. "I'm the fastest runner in the woods and you are the slowest one! We should _____!" he jeered. One day the tortoise, tired of the hare showing off, agreed to have a _____ competition. "You may be fast, but I am persistent", he said.

The next day the tortoise and the hare stood at the start, ready for the race. "One, two, three, go", said the hare and they started running. The hare was a long way in front of the tortoise when he saw a field of _____. He looked back and almost couldn't see the tortoise. "Take your time!" he shouted to the tortoise, "I'll have a _____ here and still I'll win the race!"

When he had finished his breakfast, the hare _____ around to see how far the tortoise had got. He still hadn't passed halfway! Feeling _____ after his snack, the hare thought to himself, "I will have a quick snooze now and when I wake up I will _____ run past the finish line." He fell into a deep sleep and dreamed of _____ the competition. Time passed and the sun was already setting when the hare woke up. He jumped and looked around to see the _____ a few steps from the finish line.

The hare rushed towards the finish line as fast as he could, but the tortoise was already crossing it, winning the competition. "You don't always have to be the fastest to win", the tortoise told the hare, who was sobbing in disgrace.
